WORLD MOODBOARD

This moodboard represents a realistic college environment that gradually develops a sense of unease. The visual texture focuses on everyday spaces such as corridors, notice boards, staircases, and classrooms, making the setting feel familiar and grounded. The lighting is primarily natural and practical, using fluorescent and ambient sources to create subtle contrast within the space. Framing and composition play an important role, often introducing depth and slight imbalance to create discomfort. Overall, the world appears ordinary on the surface, but the visual atmosphere suggests that something within it is being controlled and manipulated.

NEHA MOODBOARD

VOTE
PAVE

Neha’s visual identity is built around observation, curiosity, and quiet awareness. The imagery focuses on close-ups, reflections, and moments of stillness, showing her ability to notice details that others overlook. The lighting is soft and natural, creating a calm and introspective atmosphere that reflects her thoughtful nature. The use of composition emphasizes her role as an observer, often placing her slightly apart from the environment. Through these visual choices, Neha is presented as a character who processes information deeply and becomes the first to recognise the hidden patterns within the narrative.

ARJUN MOODBOARD

Arjun’s moodboard reflects urgency, action, and emotional pressure. His visual style focuses on movement and tension, often using dynamic framing and sharper contrasts to highlight his reactive nature. The imagery captures moments of motion, unease, and decision-making, especially within transitional spaces like corridors. Lighting is more intense and directional, creating a sense of pressure and instability. Unlike Neha, who observes, Arjun acts, and this is reflected in the pacing and energy of the visuals. These elements establish him as the character who drives the narrative forward through his choices.

KABIR MOODBOARD

Kabir’s visual identity is centred around control, secrecy, and subtle manipulation. The imagery focuses on shadows, silhouettes, and partial visibility, creating a sense of distance and mystery. He is often framed in a way that suggests observation rather than participation, reinforcing his hidden presence within the story. Lighting is minimal and directional, revealing only parts of his face or actions to maintain ambiguity. The overall atmosphere is restrained and controlled, reflecting his calculated behaviour. These visual choices position Kabir as the unseen force influencing events while remaining unnoticed until the final reveal.
